

Look Up

Look up.

Among a myriad of stars in the galaxy of humanity,

You will see me.

I am free from gravity,

And I deserve to be who I want to be.

I choose to travel my own path,

To seek ways to make a difference.

And I leave behind a map of my footpath,

Because the trails are adventurous.

I send out rays of amity,

To light the way for ones in dark nights.

I have the right to have individuality,

And climb to wonderful heights.

I can be myself because I know who I am.

It gives me courage to go forward.

Each day I take nature's exam.

That tests how I live in our world.

My thoughts have strong tenacity,

And they are filled with glee.

Look up at the galaxy of humanity,

I am glad you see me.
