

The Butterfly Effect

I matter because...

In a world full of chaos

Land and sea across

A small speck like me

Can change how things will be

I matter because...

My snap in America

Can create thunder in India

My stomp in Mexico

Can be an earthquake in Puerto Rico

I matter because...

A conversation in Iran

Can be an argument in Afghanistan

A lecture in Siberia

Can be a tirade in Nigeria

I matter because...

A grumble in Russia

Can be a hurricane in Louisiana

A scream in Hispaniola

Can lead to a tornado in Florida

It's called the butterfly effect
And if we stop and think about it
We realize that things can grow, bit by bit
The smallest of acts in the middle of nowhere
Could create the largest of effects elsewhere

We matter because...
Each one of our actions
Has many greater reactions
And like a butterfly flapping its wings
Each of our actions will affect things

I matter because
Something small that I do
Can do something else and accrue
Passing it on, to get bigger and bigger
Its effects will long linger